Transcript Views Specification

Rev. 3.0
February 17, 2012

CONTENTS

This document contains the specification for the display and print layout of eTranscript California transcripts in three standard Views: Brief, Gen-Ed, and Full.

The document contains three sections:

1. INTRODUCTION – describing the color-coding and data identification used in the Technical Specification, and defining general layout rules for the Views.

2. TECHNICAL SPECIFICATION – showing exactly how the Views are to be constructed and laid out, with color-coding to show sections not occurring in Brief and Gen-Ed Views.

3. EXAMPLE OF OUTPUT – showing how a specification will appear when displayed or printed, with color-coding to show sections not occurring in Brief and Gen-Ed Views.

It also includes a TECHNICAL SPECIFICATION CHANGE LOG as an Appendix.

1. INTRODUCTION

General Layout of Transcript Views

1. Document is in portrait layout with ½ inch margins at sides, top and bottom.

2. Document uses proportional fonts; font sizes used in the diagrams are exact specifications (12pt font is preferable for data).

3. In the displayed or printed transcript, headers and labels are gray, and all other text is black. No other colors are used, except for hyperlinks in the HTML and PDF pages.

4. Space lines are significant and are to be produced in the display exactly as in the format.

5. There will be three transcript Views. Brief, Gen-Ed, and Full. They can be conceived as layers, with the Brief View providing the basic layer; the Gen-Ed View adds a layer of General Education data to the Brief View, and the Full View adds a further layer of detail to the Gen-Ed View. The data shown in the Brief View is presented in the same location and format in all three Views; and the data added in the Gen-Ed View is presented in the same location and format in the Full View.

6. All data will be trimmed of unnecessary leading and trailing spaces and null characters.

Data Identification in the Specification

1. In the Specification, text colors are used to distinguish various types or classes of text, as indicated in Table A. In the actual output, common transcript text elements such as header and labels are gray (except for hyperlinks), while transcript data is black.

2. In the Specification, background colors are used to distinguish areas of the transcript that are include only in the Full View, or only in the Gen-Ed and Full Views, as indicated in Table A.

3. The data field that will fill each position or text box area is indicated by an element key in gray superscript to the right (in rare instances to the left), such as 'nnn.nn^{401}'.

   a. The view elements names used are descriptive only for purposes of the layout; they do not match the name of the field in the actual file definitions (which are rather long and unusable for layout); use the element keys provided in superscript to reference the field in Table B.

   b. One or more superscripted instructional codes can follow a key number, separated from the key by a colon and from each other by commas (for example, 'xxxxx$^{451:d,c}$'). The instructional codes are explained in Table A.

4. The Specification represent numeric data fields with n's (for example, 'nnn.nn' and 'nnn-nn-nnnn').

5. Text fields in the transcript data are represented by a field description such as 'LastName', or by a string of x's showing the maximum field length.

6. ASCII data fields are defined in the CCC ASCII Data Dictionary (eTranscript California Reference Manuals, vol. II), which also shows the mapping from ASCII to XML. Volume III of the eTranscript California Reference Manuals (to be released sometime after this document) will provide more information about XML transcript data in eTranscript California, but the ultimate reference for XML transcripts is the PESC documentation, such as the College Transcript Implementation Guide.

Table A. Color-Coding and Notations in the Views Specification

Purple Text	System-generated headings and text, always displayed.
Red Text	System-generated headings and text, sometimes displayed ("g" code defined below may be used to specify conditions of display).
Black Text	Transcript data, always displayed.
Blue Text	Transcript data, sometimes displayed ("g" code defined below may be used to specify conditions of display)
Gray Text	Technical commentary or lines that are NOT part of the display.
Superscripts^{g,d,c,w,b,r,m,p}	Superscript notations indicate aspects of the display as follows: g = generated when data exists or under a specified condition (e.g., 'g when 420' indicates that the item appears when there is data in element 420 d = display the descriptor (i.e., full text) rather than a coded value (CCC ASCII typically uses codes for 'enumerated' values) c = fields within a boxed area are concatenated (any punctuation indicated in red) w = field content wraps within text area b = bold r = right-aligned m = middle (center) alignment p = data taken from the institutional profile stored by eTranscript California (institution identified by FICE and/or CEEB, 01A04-05)
Undrlng	Underlined red text is to be hyperlinked to explanatory text within the HTML and PDF Views, except where the hyperlink is described in the accompanying gray superscript. (Other underlining in the specification indicates actual underlining in the Views.)
	Included in Gen-Ed View and Full View, but not Brief View.
	Included in Full View, but not Gen-Ed View or Brief View.

Multi-College Transcripts

If a district-wide transcript includes transcript data for multiple colleges, the transcript data for each additional college is presented sequentially in the Transcript Views according to the specification above, except that the following occur only for the first transcript institution:

- 'Electronically submitted data provided from eTranscript California'; 'Transcript Issued' line; and Reference and Request IDs.
- SENDING INSTITUTION and DISTRICT data blocks.

2. TECHNICAL SPECIFICATION

Superscript notations indicate aspects of the display as follows:
  g = generated when data exists or under a specified condition (e.g., 'g when 420' indicates that the item appears when there is data in element 420
  d = display the descriptor (i.e., full text) rather than a coded value (CCC ASCII typically uses codes for 'enumerated' values)
  c = fields within a boxed area are concatenated (any punctuation indicated in red) w = field content wraps within text area b = bold
  r = right-aligned
  m = middle (center) alignment
  p = data taken from the institutional profile stored by eTranscript California (institution identified by FICE and/or CEEB, 01A04-05)

For XML source file, this table is a work in progress.

3. EXAMPLE OF OUTPUT

The following example of printed/displayed output (HTML or PDF) features credit from archived (offline) records and a term-basis conversion, as well as a variety of notes and institutional information. Background colors indicate portions of the transcript that are included only in the Gen-Ed and/or Full Views, as indicated in Table A. The background colors are not part of the printed/displayed output. Blue, underlined text represents hyperlinks.

Note that the values in this sample are not actual and may not make sense academically or otherwise.
